Objective of the Dialogue

Since the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Station's Accident, it has already passed 8 years. However, industries in Fukushima Prefecture, in particular primary industries, have been influenced by the accident significantly so far. The impact does not only concern the control of radiatopm but also the economic and social aspects. Recently these latter have even become dominant.. The problem reaches not only the production sites but also the distribution, retail and consumption of the products. It is therefore difficult to understand the full impact of the accident. Accordingly, various kinds of stakeholders (producers, distributors, retailers and consumers) will be involved in this Dialogue meeting which should be an opportunity to send information of the current situation and problems in agriculture and fishery inside and outside Japan.

The dialogue meeting will be two days: the first one for field visit and the next one for the Dialogue meeting. The objective of the field visit is to better understand the current situation. Participants to the field visit must be registered in advance but the participation of the Dialogue meeting is free.
